Plexpay Network Review

(Author Bravehoststamps )

Program Overview

Plexpay Network (<http://www.plexpaynetwork.com> ) is a Norway-based high-yield loan program with a business model similar to the one of PIPS. The company's administrators are personally familiar with Bryan Marsden, the CEO of PIPS Inc. The loan program of Plexpay Network has been launched only a short while ago and is called "Global Profit System". In order to have access to this program, you are required to be at least a gold member of the network. The company emphasized on the loan status of its venture, instead of the status of an investment program, and warns about certain levels of risk being involved in its business activities (depending on the option you choose).

Business Concept

Currently, the program is offering three loan options: High Risk Program, Smart Program, and The Nordic Investment Pool. Under the High Risk Program the return on loan (ROL) constitutes 2-2.5% per every single trading day for 365 days. The Smart Program option offers 3% daily for the period of 180 days. Finally, funds deposited into The Nordic Investment Pool are divided into three parts: 25% goes in the High Risk Market, another 25% is placed in the Smart Program, and the remaining 50% is invested in business property. The ROL for this option varies between 300 to 600 percent annually. The company is also planning on more programs being launched with its partners. The nature of these programs will differ, with various levels of risk being involved.

Deposits and Withdrawals

The following methods of payment are accepted at the moment: several e-currencies, bank wires and SWIFT transfers. More information on payment options is available to the program's members. Payouts are processed on time upon request. The company's clients are also offered an excellent opportunity of obtaining a free offshore bank account with Loyal Bank to conduct their business and private transactions.
