

HYIP-Navigator.com Presents FX Investment Group Review

(Author Bravehoststamps)

Program Overview

FX Investment Group is a high-yield investment company, acquiring an offshore registration in Belize (with a copy of its Certificate of Incorporation) being available on the program's website). The program's financial experts are dealing primarily with Commodities, Precious Metals, and Foreign exchange (involving both Futures and Spot Markets). The company has been in operation since 2002, having left an excellent reputation on the market of online investments. The FXIG is not a syndicate, it does not gamble or wager. It is based on sound investment and money management principles and uses sophisticated procedures developed to prevent losses.

Business Concept

Investments are accepted anytime, starting to gain interest the following week after a deposit was made, with no more than 10% of the investment being at risk at one time. The minimal investment amount is US $5,000. If you wish to invest a smaller amount, it can be done via Feeder Fund pool (this program is also listed on HYIP-Navigator.com), with the minimum being fixed there at $50. More funds can be added to an investor's account at any time – they are put into operation the following Monday. A complete deposit/withdrawal history, altogether with your current balance, is available in the internal account section of the company's website. The entire balance displayed on your internal account page is all yours, completely available for withdrawal. The company warns its clients about certain levels of risk being involved – however, this has never occurred throughout its entire history. The average monthly gain currently constitutes 20%.

Website and Customer Support

Beyond all manner of doubt, the company's website has been created by a team of professional programmers and designers. Its excellent technological features are accompanied by well-thought security features and automatic updates of internal account balances and histories. The program's administration can be contacted in a variety of ways: regular mail, phone, or a secure online contact form. Alternatively, you may request an online Live Support session with the company's customer support department, available during business hours. In addition, an online forum is available for the investors' perusal.

Our Opinion

A short while ago FX Investment Group has been added to the Feeder Fund pool whose administration is known for its precise verification and audit requirements. We have contacted Feeder Fund, and their manager has confirmed this fact. A complete trading history with charts is updated on the company's website on a daily basis. The minimal investment amount might seem to be quite high – in this case, investing via Feeder Fund would be an excellent option. We are strongly convinced about the future integrity and growth of this program.
