

HYIP-Navigator.com Presents TradeForever Review

(Author Bravehoststamps)

Program Description

TradeForever (www.tradeforever.com) is a small brokerage company founded by a group of experienced Brazilian traders whose primary area of interest is concentrated on Foreign Exchange (FOREX) – the global currency trading market. Its online program is fairly new and has been put to operation in 2005. The program aims at providing regular people with an opportunity to invest in high-entry business opportunities, with honesty and high moral standards being declared as the company's priorities.

Business Concept

The program offers several investment plans to its members. These plans are divided into five main classes and a few subclasses per each class, depending on the amount being invested and the holding period of a deposit. In particular, Class A has no time limits for interest payments. Under Class B, interest is being paid for 300 days, Class C – 50 days, Class D – 30 days, Class E – 60 days. Overall, the minimal amount for investing is $10 USD, with the maximum being set to $10,000 USD. There are no internal accounts for the program's members – all transactions are handled directly via E-gold. The company uses electronic currencies for several reasons. First of all, the transactions with e-currencies are much more secure. The other important thing is that while using electronic currency members never interact with any of the governmental organizations (such as tax structures, investigation institutions or executives). Furthermore, the program is able to reduce administrative expenses by using e-currencies in its operations. TradeForever has no referral program. The first interest payout is made in 24 hours after the money was deposited, with further payouts being made on a daily basis, seven days per week.

Website and Customer Support

The program has an easy-to-use and reliable website, which is not likely to become subject to hacker's attacks (since there's no online internal accounts in TradeForever). The program's customer support is always prompt and helpful, with numerous contact options being available to both current and prospective investors. This includes a secure online contact forum, the company's e-mail and physical addresses, and a telephone number. In addition, the program's own forum has been set up to assist members with any issues they might have. One more thing to be pointed out is the presence of the "Investment Monitorings" section, where the company's current status on different monitoring websites is displayed.

Our Opinion

FOREX trading is known as a lucrative field of business, with high returns being generated on a daily basis. The company's administration appears to be very knowledgeable in this area, expressing its readiness to answer any questions regarding the program's business concept. With a developed range of investment plans and a serious approach demonstrated by TradeForever, we view this program as another option to consider for your high-yield investments portfolio.

Copyright 2004-2005 HYIP-Navigator.com