IT4US Review

(Author Bravehoststamps)

Business Concept

IT4us (“IT” stands for “International Trading”) is an online investment program, which has been in operation since November, 2004. The company claims to be trading on stock exchange markets, altogether with providing numerous additional services which enable it to generate the total revenue of 250% over the period of up to 30 days on your deposit followed by the return of your initial investment (called “security deposit”) in another thirty-day period.

Deposits and Payouts

The program currently accepts E-gold and IntGold with a minimal amount of investment being fixed at $5 USD. All payouts are made automatically to your e-currency account upon the maturity of a deposit. Making a deposit is called “purchasing a portal”. The concept of portals is based on the amount of money you are investing. The larger the amount of your investment is the higher portal you are “purchasing”, and the more time it takes for your deposit to mature. Investors are limited to “purchasing” ten portals within a 24-hour period. Members are subdivided into “Traders” and “Clients”, which is based on the longevity of their experience with IT.

Program's Website

The program offers a relatively secure forum with numerous subsections. On the contrary to it, the main page of the company's website is fairly primitive (<http://www.it4us.net> ). This fact might raise some questions, since the company declares web-design as one of its major business activities.

Customer Support

The optimal way to contact IT support technicians is via e-mail or a PM (Private Message) option available on the program's forum. A limited circle of members has an opportunity to contact the program's "Executive Directors" by telephone. Physical addresses as well as the real names of the program's staff are kept in secret.

Our Opinion

IT promises to start teaching its members how to trade on stock exchange markets, but so far this aspect didn't go beyond the point of promises. The way the company generates such high returns is also not revealed to its investors. The program is not on the list of any corporate registrars at the moment. It claims to be backed by a group of international business establishments – however, no details are provided regarding this issue. The author of this article attempted to make an inquiry about the nature of the program's business and to request a clarification on the above-mentioned issues – as a result, his membership in IT was terminated and he was banned from the forum. Hence, we would recommend you to be very careful about voicing your concerns in public forums, as it might have similar effects.

The history of past online businesses, run by the current IT team, carries a long record of failures. The most recent venture of theirs was named "CTIS/CashTrade" which collapsed a while ago. A hacker's attack was declared to be an official reason for its crash by the program's administration.

Considering all information from the above, we would strongly recommend you to approach this program with caution. Don't let yourself be blinded with the returns IT is offering to its members: such well-known investment and brokerage companies as "Waterhouse Coopers" and "Berkshire Hathaway" have never been able to generate the total revenue of 250% per month on a permanent basis. If you choose to invest, take out your principal as soon as possible and reinvest part of the profits – this way you will end up as a winner regardless of any possible outcome.
